

Graco Upgrades LDX, SDX and XDX Hose Reels

September 14, 2021

Tougher, easier-to-use hose reels

MINNEAPOLIS--(BUSINESS WIRE)--Sep. 14, 2021-- Graco Inc. (NYSE:GGG), a leading manufacturer of fluid handling equipment, is pleased to announce the launch of the LDX™, SDX™ and XDX™ series of hose reels, allowing for smoother releases and consistent recoiling with less maintenance. Our extensive family of versatile retractable hose reels handle all common fluids with unmatched durability. Choose from the industrial-grade LDX, professional-grade SDX and extreme-heavy-duty XDX hose reels. They include a robust all-metal frame and spool to help protect key components from dirt and debris and other workplace hazards for long-lasting year-after-year productivity.

Graco's new lineup of hose reels come in a wide range of lengths, diameters, supported fluid types and colors, and can be mounted multiple ways to accommodate any application. "From lighter-duty tasks to the most demanding heavy-duty environments, from a one-bay garage to a large luxury dealership to a remote mining site, Graco has a hose reel built specifically to ensure optimal productivity," said Shane Norman, Product Marketing Manager for Graco's Lubrication Equipment Division. "Graco hose reels ensure crews can work quickly and decisively without worrying about hassles and delays."

Designed with an all-metal frame and specially crafted components, Graco's industrial-grade LDX hose reel offers incredible value for cost-conscious smaller garages, independent repair facilities and industrial manufacturing environments. Choose Graco's flagship SDX hose reels for high-quality performance and versatility in applications requiring more frequent use such as car dealerships, light- to medium-duty truck dealers and fleet maintenance facilities.
